

Do you like a mysterious character?

If you're looking for someone good to read about then listen here.....arriving in a dark green '54 Bentley a figure appears in a black rimmed hat with matching stretchy gloves and a long black scarf. Wearing a suit that hangs loosely on him like a coat hanger and dark, reflective sunglasses that disguises the unsettling fact that he has no eyes. Look closely and you'll find he is a skeleton with dry, grey bones and a mysterious past.

He's a detective with a cheeky smart-mouth who can be demanding and serious if needed. When solving mysteries he always knows how to find the people with the right information, which can be a tricky business when there are evil masterminds involved. Someone arguing with him isn't something he likes but he is always willing to argue back.

Did you know there is a magical world out there? Well if you didn't then you probably haven't met Skulduggery Pleasant. Turned into a skeleton during the magical war he vows revenge on those who killed his family. Unlike usual detectives he has the power to control the elements but always has his revolver on hand if all else fails. Often accompanied by Stephanie, an ordinary human girl, he's always looking after her when facing villains although often using a very reckless approach.

Skulduggery is a great guy to be around if you like daring behaviour and awesome magic. I would really like the courageous Skulduggery protecting me, would you too?
