

POETRY

The following is an eclectic list of favourite volumes from members of the committee: Sally Gallagher (SG), Bev Barnes (BB), Joan Sharrock (JS), Betty Gilderdale (BG), Helen Beckingsale (HB), Rosemary Tisdall (RT) and Susan McIntosh (SM).

All are available through the public library system and many through specialist children's bookshops.

Poetry 0 - 16 by Morag Styles and Pat Triggs Books for Keeps, London 1988

Books for Keeps, the British children's book magazine, publish a number of inspirational guides for parents, teachers and librarians of which this is one. (There is an updated version called A Guide To Poetry 0-13). Grouped under headings such as Poems Picture Books, Collections and Anthologies 6-9yrs, and Thematic Anthologies, Styles and Triggs provide a comprehensive selection of the best poetry books available. There is also an excellent section on Poetry in Practice in which both poets and teachers speak of bringing children and poetry together and a do-it-yourself Four Step Guide to a Poetic Classroom, which is not to be missed. (SG). Write to: Books for Keeps, 6 Brightfield Road, Lee. London SE12 8QF

Does It Have to Rhyme and What Rhymes with Secret? by Sandy Brownjohn

Hodder and Stoughton, Kent 1995These are just two of the "Books for Teachers" recommended in Poetry 0-16. They are full of practical suggestions for tackling poetry with children - the sort of books you can flick through quickly and get an idea from for a writing lesson. The former offers lots of examples of word play leading to poetry while the latter's emphasis is on more demanding "forms". Indispensable. (SG)

This Poem Doesn't Rhyme by Gerard Benson Puffin, London 1992 Informal and entertaining in his approach, Benson introduces his readers to the idea that poetry doesn't have to rhyme to be poetry. Including the work of a wide range of poets from different ages, cultures and countries, here are examples of alliterative verse, imagist poems, riddles, shape and sound poems and playful poems that seem to flout all the rules. 10years+. (SG)

Also by Gerard Benson: Does W Trouble You

The Puffin Book of Twentieth-Century Children's Verse Edited by Brian Patten

Illustrated by Michael Foreman Puffin, London 1991

Puffin. London 1991
Starting with contemporary poets and moving back to the beginning of the twentieth century, this is a brilliant and diverse combination of comic and serious verse by a wide variety of poets, from Michael Rosen to James Reeves, from James Berry to Thomas Hardy and many more. A very accessible anthology for children aged 10 yrs+ not only in the great choice of poems but in the type size, layout and use of illustration. One of my most-used books of poetry. (SG)

The Young Puffin Book of Verse Compiled by Barbara Ireson Illustrated by Gioia Fiammenghi Penguin Books, Harmondsworth 1971

My favourite anthology for younger children, first published in 1970 and reprinted many times hee. A lively collection of poems, verses, nursery rhymes and jingles about birds and bullfrogs, wind and waves, friends and relations, soldiers and sailors by writers like Edward Lear, Eleanor Farjeon and Walter de la Mare. Very inviting in its layout and use of illustration. 4 - 8yrs. (SG, HB)

Oxford Book of Poetry for Children

Compiled by Edward Blishen Illustrated by Brian Wildsmith Oxford University Press 1988 An introduction to the richness and variety of English poetry for younger children featuring many well loved authors such as Lewis Carroll, Christina Rossetti, and William Wordsworth. With humour of all shades, ballads, poems of mystery, delicate tales of faery, songs of the sea and nature and people, jingles and limericks this is an excellent volume to kindle interest and delight in poetry for children in middle primary years. Attractively presented and illustrated throughout by a master artist. (SG)

There's An Awful Lot of Weirdos in our Neighbourhood
by Colin McNaughton
Walker Books, London 1994
With over sixty zany, nutty verses featuring some of the weirdest characters you're ever likely to meet and illustrated throughout in McNaughton's inimitable style, this is an irresistible collection for 7 - 10 year olds. Buy this and have fun with words. (SG)

Also: Making Friends with Frankenstein

The Little Dog Laughed and other Nursery Rhymes
Illustrated by Lucy Cousins
Macmillan, London 1989
A very lively and colourful collection of favourite nursery rhymes. Cousins uses a naive style with bold blocks of contrasting hues as a background to her marching, jumping, dancing characters. Very attractive. 0-6 years. (SG)

Brian Wildsmith Mother Goose

A Collection of Nursery Rhymes Oxford University Press, 1984
Another favourite collection.
Wildsmith's colourful whimsical illustrations are detailed and presented in a most imaginative way - there's plenty to explore and talk about here and children will want to return over and over again to favourite pages. 0-6 years. (SG)

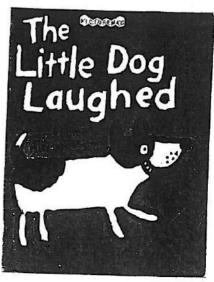

17 Kings and 42 Elephants by Margaret Mahy Illustrated by Patricia MacCarthy J.M. Dent & Sons, London 1987 A rumbling, rollicking journey set to an irresistible beat through mystical jungles in a far away land. Wonderful language illustrated with brilliant Batik paintings on silk. 0-8 years. (SG)

The Drover's Boy
by Ted Egan
Illustrated by Robert Ingpen
Lothian Books, Victoria 1997
A haunting picture

A haunting picture book presentation of a ballad written as tribute to the many hundreds of Aboriginal women who were employed illegally as cattle drovers in Northern Australia in the early 1900s. 10 years +. (SG)

The Highwayman by Alfred Noves Illustrated by Charles Keeping Oxford University Press 1996 First published in 1981 and reprinted many times since, Charles Keeping's dramatic and exciting illustrations are perfect complement to this haunting, unforgettable poem. 10 years + (SG)

Messages
Edited by Naomi Lewis
Illustrated by Brian Grimwood
Faber, London 1985
Naomi Lewis, well known as a writer and critic, has put together a collection of originality and depth. There are many new poems and even those by Wordsworth, Browning and Hardy are not the familiar few much anthologised elsewhere. Don't be put off by the unprepossessing cover - this volume has a contemporary, thought-provoking tone that makes poetry come alive for children aged 12 years +. (SG)

All My Own Stuff
Poems by Adrian Mitchell
Illustrated by Frances Lloyd
Simon and Schuster, Herts 1991
Adrian Mitchell's work is great for hooking contemporary kids onto poetry - it's witty, upbeat, mysterious and fun to read. This collection has the added bonus of fantastic illustrations that perfectly complement the verse. 7 years +.
(SG)

Falling Up

Poems and drawings by Shel Silverstein

Harper Collins, New York 1996
Shel Silverstein writes with a crazy, over the top view of the world that most children adore, his wit and humour mirrored in the black and white drawings that are themselves masterpieces of the unexpected. A nice fat book that's easy to read.

7 - 12 years. (SG) Also: A Light in the Attic, Where the Sidewalk Ends.

The New Oxford Book of Children's Verse Edited by Neil Philip

Oxford University Press 1996
A lively anthology representing the ethnic and cultural diversity of contemporary writing for children varying from African-American and Aborigine to New Zealand, Scottish and Canadian. Arranged in historical sequence by the year of the poet's birth, familiar names such as Edward Lear, Christina Rossetti and Rudyard Kipling lead on to new generations: Charles Causley, Ted Hughes, Roger McGough and many more. Lots of good material here. 10 years+. (SG)

The New Oxford Treasury of Children's Poems

Oxford University Press 1995

A collection of poems - a perfect introduction to the magic world of poetry. (BB & JS)

The Whispering Room Haunted Poems

Chosen by Gillian Clarke Illustrated by Justin Todd Kingfisher 1996 Poems filled with mystery and wonder, with words and images to

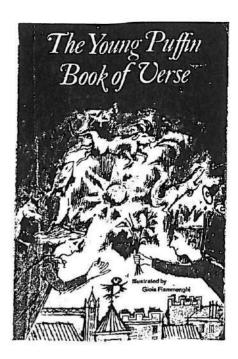

A World of Poetry
Selected by Michael Rosen
Kingfisher 1991
Mysterious, funny, horrific, sad, wild, ugly, calm, wonderful. (BB & JS)

Early Years Poems and Rhymes
Compiled by Jill Bennett
Scholastic, reprinted 1996
A rich collection of poetry for young children. (BB & JS)

The Tin Can Band and Other Poems

by Margaret Mahy
Illustrated by Honey de Lacey
Dent & Sons Ltd. 1989
A selection of Mahy's most delightful and popular poems. (BB)

Pawprints in the Butter by Joy Cowley & Friends Mallinson Reed. 1991 A book for everyone who likes cats. (BB & JS)

Fly Away, Fly Away Over the Sea by Christina Rosetti Illustrated by Bernadette Watts North-South Books, New York. 1991 A collection of poems about nature (BB & JS)

A Children's Garden of Verse by Robert Louis Stevenson Illustrated by Eric Kincaid Brimax Books 1995 A famous collection of verse. (BB & JS)

Classic Poems to Read Aloud
Selected by James Berry
Kingfisher 1995
A classic anthology which parents and children love. (BB & JS)

Growltiger's Last Stand and Other Poems
by T.S. Eliot
Illustrated by Errol Le Cain
Faber & Faber 1986
This is a picture book full of delights for children and adults alike. (BB & JS)

The Puffin Baby and Toddler Treasury

Viking, London 1998

If a young child could have only one book this must be the one. Tom Kitten rubs shoulders with Spot, with Raymond Briggs' Snowman and the Three Billy Goats Gruff. Nursery rhymes and traditional tales are side-by-side with A.A. Milne and Shirley Hughes. Wherever possible stories are illustrated by the original artists and the whole book is beautifully designed and produced. (BG)

Poems for the Very Young
Selected by Rosalyn Barnett
Mustrated by Robyn Belton
Mallinson Rendel, Wellington 1993
A New Zealand choice which includes poems by James K Baxter,
Ruth Dallas and Margaret Mahy supplemented by well-known overseas poets. The pictures are especially beautiful. (BG,RT)

A Barrel of Stories for 7-Year-Olds

Selected by Pat Thomson
Doubleday, London 1996
A very useful book for a notoriously difficult age group.
Manageable bed-time story lengths
by Dick King Smith, Joan Aiken, Phillippa Pearce and Michael

Rosen among others - humour being a notable ingredient. (BG)

Sun Days and Moon Nights
Selected by Rosalyn Barnett
Illustrated by Trish Bowles
Mallinson Rendel, Wellington 1994
New Zealand stories for 6 - 8 years
olds, including ones by Ron Bacon,
Margaret Mahy and James Norcliffe.

The Hutchinson Treasury of Children's Literature

Edited by Alison Sage Hutchinson, London 1995

This book would delight an entire family. Divided into four sections according to age, the first has picture books reproduced with the original illustrations, the next includes stories such as Old Bear and Mrs Tiggywinkle. Section 3 is aimed at the 8 - 10 year olds, with extracts from the The BFG and from Narnia. Section 4 includes The Secret Garden and The Wind in the Willows. The whole forms a definitive selection of the best in children's literature. (BG,RT)

The Puffin New Zealand Storybook

Edited by Gwen Gawith Puffin, Auckland 1996

This is an update of an earlier Storybook and is a zany collection suited to intermediate age readers featuring Judy Corballis, Tom Bradley, Diana Noonan and Witi Ihimaera among others. (BG)

The Oxford Book of Story Poems
Selected by Michael Harrison and
Christopher Stuart-Clark

Oxford University Press, New York 1990

This wonderful selection has all the story poems which seem to have disappeared from recent anthologies. Parents and grandparents will be delighted to see 'The Inchcape Rock', 'Sir Patrick Spens' and 'The Lady of Shallot' as well as 'The Listeners', 'The Highwayman' and many more favourites. Children will love these poems presented here in a large lavishly illustrated edition. (BG)

The Rattle Bag

Edited by Seamus Heaney and Ted Hughes

Faber, London 1982

A wonderful and surprising anthology for upper secondary level. Poems arranged in alphabetical order shock and delight by their juxtaposition. Who would expect Betjeman's 'Senex' next to Wilfred Owen's 'The Send-Off'? A real Rattle Bag but marvellously successful. (BG)

Bright Star Shining

Edited by Michael Harrison and Christopher Stuart-Clark Oxford

Colour illustrations, hardbound. A collection of thirty two poems about Christmas, beginning with the Nativity and moving to more secular aspects of Christmas such as Christmas trees and Santa Claus. Its large picture book format makes it look like a book for younger children but it is suitable for all ages. (HB)

The Oxford Book of Animal Poems

Edited by Michael Harrison and Christopher Stuart-Clark.

Oxford

Colour illustrations, hardbound. This anthology begins with poems about ocean wildlife and then a selection about animals from around the world. Poets from each continent contribute poems about their own animals as well as a selection from traditional and modern poets. Twelve different artists have contributed to the illustrations. 8 years +. (HB)

MacMillan Treasury of Poetry for Children

Foreword by Charles Causley Macmillan 1997

Suitable for all ages as old favourites and ballads are included. Divided into categories. Lovely illustrations. (RT)

Puffin Book of Utterly Brilliant Poetry

Edited by Brian Patten Penguin Group, 1988

Ten outstanding poets including Spike Milligan, Michael Rosen, Allan Ahlberg, and Kit Wright. There is an interview with each poet at the beginning of each section. Different illustrators bring variety to the book. (RT)

The Classic Treasury of Silly Poetry

Edited by Jane P Resnik
Illustrated by Joan Gallup
Running Press Books 1995
Ridiculous, funny, silly! Classic poets and contemporary, e.g.
Rudyard Kipling, Edward Lear.
Suitable for children with a sense of humour. (RT)

Anna - Growing Up on the Farm by Gill Davies Illustrated by Stewart Lees

Illustrated by Stewart Lees Brimax Books 1998

Hardback, gorgeous illustrations, poem on one side of page, illustration opposite. Poems telling about life for Anna and brother Jack, on the farm, including changing seasons, and family. Suitable for all children. (RT)

For me, me, me
Poems for the very young
Selected by Dorothy Butler
Illustrated by Megan Gressor
Hodder & Stoughton Sydney (SM)

Listen to This

Compiled by Laura Cecil
Illustrated by Emma Chichester
Clark
The Bodley Head, London 1987

The Bodley Head, London 1987 (SM)

Tomie de Paola's Book of Poems Selected and illustrated by Tomie de Paola

Methuen Children's Books Ltd London 1989 (SM)

Something Zany, a crazy miscellany of poems, rhymes and stories

Compiled and illustrated by Gwen Gawith

Ashton Scholastic 1992 (SM)

The New Oxford Book of Poems Chosen by Adrian Mitchell Illustrated by Chloe Cheese

Orchard Books, London 1993 (SM)

Laura's Poems by Laura ranger Godwit Publishing Ltd, Auckland 1995 (SM)

A World of Poetry
Selected by Michael Rosen
Kingfisher. London 1991 (SM)
Sing a Song of Popcorn,
Every Child's Book of Poems
Selected by Beatrice Schenk de
Regniers, Eva Moore, Mary
Michaels White, Jan Carr
Illustrated by nine Caldecott Medal
Artists (SM)
Scholastic Inc., New York, 1988

FOUR STEPS TO A POETIC CLASSROOM

A series of self assessment checklists as published in the guide Poetry 0-16 by Morag Styles and Pat Triggs.

Step 1 How to become a P.E.T. (Poetry Enthusiast Teacher!)

- Stop being afraid of poetry or believing it is boring.
- Get to know and like poetry yourself.
- Do your own 'poetry inventory' how much have you already got in your head: rhymes, hymns, songs, jungles, odd lines or phrases?
- Dip into The Rattle Bag (page 37) and find some things you like.
- 5. Have faith in your own intuitive response.
- Browse in bookshops and libraries.
- 7. Read reviews don't believe them all.
- Start a twice-termly leachers group which meets to share ideas about poetry, read it to one another.
- Talk about poetry with your colleagues
- Collaborate on poetry ventures with other teachers.
- 11. Hold an in-service day on poetry.
- Press your adviser/inspector to put on some in-service.
- Contact your Regional Arts Association's Literature Officer to find out what's on offer.
- Be as interested, if not more interested, in the process of writing a poem as in the product.
- Collect favourite poems as you go or make sure you can find them again when you want them.

Step 3 Check your poetry resources.

Are you using . . .

- Poems written long ago as well as yesterday?
- Poems from many cultures, different voices?
- Ballads and long narrative poems as well as haiku?
- 4. Rhyming poems as well as free verse?
- Limericks, tanka, odes, cinquains, acrostics, sonnets, jokes, riddles?
- The children's own store of poetry and rhyme playground chants, 'TV jungles, songs'
- Lots of poems by one poet (then another, then another)?
- 8. Illustrated poetry and talking about pictures in the mind?
- 9 Poems that can be worked on for choral speaking?
- 10. Mime, movement, drama, art, music as ways of responding to poetry?
- 11. Poetry across the curriculum where it seems appropriate in music, in science, in history?

Step 2 Check what sort of environment for poetry you create.

Do you

- Make sure you have at least six good poetry books in your book corner, including picture books?
- 2. Have poems as well as stones on tape for your listening centre?
- Type and mount a different poem each week and display it prominently? Let the children choose as soon as they are interested.
- 4. Give children time for browsing among poetry books?
- Give children time for quiet reading of poems?
- 6 Encourage children to read poems aloud to each other?
- Make poetry tapes?
- 8. Encourage children to make poetry tapes?
- 9 Make class anthologies by theme? illustrated? handwritten? illuminated? in BIG books? in miniature?
- 10 Let each child keep a special book for writing in favourite poems, including ones written by them and their friends?
- 11 Read aloud in class for pleasure at least one poem every day?
- 12 Read some poems twice? Most gain from a second reading.
- 13 Use joining-in rhymes before the daily story-time?
- 14 Re-read regularly favourite poems on request?
- 15 Use poems for handwriting practice?
- 16 Encourage children to 'perform' poems individually or in groups?
- 17 Share a poem, a book, a poet you like or have just discovered with children in your class?
- 18 Encourage learning by heart for the pleasure of it?
- 19 Have poetry in the school bookshop?

Step 4 Check your rating for developing poetry writing.

Do you . . .

- Encourage children to keep journals? Ideas can grow into poems.
- Seize every opportunity to get children to observe, look closely and reflect/draw?
- Offer children something concrete/particular to write about?
- Encourage children to see their own experiences as material for poetry?
- 5. Stay alert for seizing the moment when an individual or a class is ready to write, or to hear a particular poem?
- 6. Resist 'teaching' figures of speech in sterile exercises preferring to allow children to 'find' them in the poems you read and talk about?
- Encourage children to muck about with language, engage in word play, use forms?
- Use discussion time after writing poetry to talk naturally about techniques like rhyme, rhythm, repetition, imagery, as they emerge from the children's own writing?
- 9. Get children to share what they have written as part of the writing process and encourage redrafting?
- 10. Show children how 'real' poets draft, cross out, change their work?
- 11. Arrange for a poet to come into your classroom?
- 12 Refuse to 'mark' children's writing, preferring to respond, reply or share?
- 13. Encourage children to make their own poetry picture books?
- 14. Display children's poetry beautifully?
- 15 Let children see your writing too?
- 16. Get involved in poetry competitions?
- 17. Notice and encourage the connections between reading, listening to and writing poetry?